The wheat it ascreal of our Chicago elevators is declared to be hot, which is a prelude to souring, as the latter condition is the beginning of an injurious germination. The exact extent of the evit is not known; but there is reason to hope that it will not prove to be very serious, as the wirehouse propietors have doubled the storage charges on the badly conditioned grain, which will necessitate its speedy removal.

It is always dangerous to let grain lie in large masses throug it he summer, on account of this tendency to spontaneous germination, which is exactly the same process as that excited in bariey in the process of conversion into malt. It was espesially dangerous this year, as the crop of apring wheat of 1550 was of a west poor quality, though a good one in point of yield. It was considerationally in a confidence of the consequence equally disastrons, though different in kind. The spirit of local speculation was boay, and for months the price of wheat in this market was kept up several cents per bushel higher than the figures at which it would pay to send it East. As a consequence, the shippers were idle, and the grain accuminated. In 1985, or a explais was not taken out of store because England could supply her deficiencies more chasply from Northern Europe than at the prices at which it was held here. Where this fact become evident, a heavy break in prices followed, and wheat because a drag, though it do not spoil. The Commercial mixes things. It says in one sentence that the Country Journal, descentions, and in reader a determined, for, or course, as an outrage, and in the very next sentence asks us why we did not put a negro on our Democratic county ticket. Dots one outrage fastify asother. Was the election of Senator Rayus by the Radicals in Mississippi an axample ast before the Democrati in Kentucky? And, if so, how so!

The Commercial says that the old Journal and the old Courier (it oralts the old Democrat) were Know-Nothing, and saks that we want and what our readers want. Often, again, matter is brought us which the such in t him?" The Commercial's ideas of triend-ship are confused. It seems to understand "iriendahip" to mean "making a fuss" over a man in public, and then letting him starve in private. We are the triends of the negro because we do not fool him, be-cause we raise up before him no false hopes, because we deal candidly by him. Before he is done with Radicelism he will find that it is all fuss and no pay.

Judge sent over to borrow a wheel-barrow, when Monsieur Tonson informed the meswhen Monsieur Toxson informed the mes-seager that what he had said was "only for ze polite." So it is with the Radical bow-wow over the Germans and the ne-groes. The Radicals are very sweet upon. Prussis and upon Sakno as long as they hope to get the votes of Prussians and colored men. But what are they willing to do? What value is there in this idli-table? It is a mere overs affair, in which several of our Kentacky exchanges because we announced that all communications recommending individuals for office would, after a certain date, he charged for by us, as advertisements.

The rule, like most rules, was the result of a necessity which pressed upon us. Every day we were made the receptacle of enough matter of the kind to fill an ordinary issue of the Coursum-Journal. Surrus, who had a mind to go to Congress, sait down himself, or got a friend to sit down, and write a letter existiling the transcendent services, shillites and ment of Surru. Journ, who only aspured to the office of constable, sat down, or gots friend to sit down, and write a letter existiling the transcendent services, shillites and ment of Surru. Journ, who only aspured to the office of constable, sat down, or gots friend to sit down, and write a letter existiling the transcendent services, shillites and ment of Journ. In most cases there was not much difference made between the claims of Surrus and Journ, both being pronounced miracles of integrity, builiancy and popularity, but where there happened to be a difference is usually fell favor of the candidate for constable over the candidate for Congress.

The thing became a prodigious bore. It deceived so one, it interested only the parties directly involved, and it occupied space which could be more properly and acceptably filled. But, so long as it was allowed to run at will, free of charge, it was likely to in crease it with a constant intendency to increase it with a containt intendency to increase it with a containt involving the suspicion of unfair-oten involving the suspicion of unfair-

But, going back to the root of the business and setting aside its practical injustice and inconvenience, why should a newspaper make itself the free conveyance of one class of enterprise, whilst oharging a regular advertising tariff for another class of enterprise? What is the difference between the interest of Jones, the candidate for constable, and the interest of Banker or Andrews, candidates for favor of another sort? One man wants the people to ensort? constable, and the interest of Barker or Approxis, candidates for favor of another sort! One man wants the people to engage his services as a public officer, and to pay him for his services; another wishes to sell, not his services; another wishes to sell, not his services; another wishes to sell, not his services; Both are advertisers. Both wish to display their peculiar wares to the best advantage. But one comes along and urges that because he wants an office he ought to get his advertising for nothing. This might has plausable pies if he proposed to charge nothing for filling the office. But not a bit of it. He proposes nothing of the kind. On the contrary, he expects to get better pay is the public service than he gets out of his private business. Therefore, why should he go free! Does he get his law for nothing, or his physic for nothing, because he and his attorney, or his doctor, are of the same politics? Does he board at a hotel for nuthing because he and the conductor are members of the same party or church? Why should he have the freedom of the press, the run of columns which cost great sums of money, and are more expensive than any other class of enterprise, because he and

The Cournes-Journax is a child of the present, and, so it hopse to be a being of the future, if if non-procerpites in all things. It recognizes merit slone, it procerbes no one.

The German chitsens of America can rest assured that they will receive full justice from the Democratic party. That party simply declines to dabble in empty expressions designed to flaiter and deceived by the course of the strong of the future, it goes no on solid sots, not on kile cant. In the present ware we owe at to curreive to be neutral, but also to be independent. We should treat both parties fairly and space of each without lear or savor. So it is with the Radical how-wow over the Germans and the negroes. The Radicals are very sweet upon Prussis and upon Samo as long as they hope to get the votes of Prussians and colored men. But what are they willing to do? What value is there in this idle talk? It is a mere oyster affair, in which the Radicals swallow the oyster and give the German and the negro each a shell. That is all. iar as we were able, frankly, tearlessly and courtsonely. We make no pretense to in-fallibility. We do not set up for an oracle gin for differences of opinion, and seek argue them upon the most reasonable ar well-hred principles, questioning the m ives of no one.

When events prove us wrong we sha confess as much, and endeavor to repai rhatever damage has been done. Con-stency is perhaps impossible, and we retend only to lust an armonic of the conastesty is perhaps imposition, and we pretend only to just so much consistency as some knowledge of public affairs, a genuine wash to speak the trith, and entire confidence in the fairness of all popular judgments, may compass. Our readers can best judge whether our general size and nurrose have been consistent. aim and purpose have been consistent and that the public good as we have un derstood it, and the people ought to be writy well satisfied by this time that whatever we think we are sure to say ient always to do what we think is right timid only before that which is wrong, of that which we do not understand. It seems to us that this is just what th

Democratic party has most need of, and as it costs the party nothing at all, bein contributed day by day gratuitously, an without the least hope, wish or expect tion of subsidy of any sort, it ought to be valued for what it is worth.

The Commercial says that it points with pride to the Radical ticket as one that "has none of the pot-house elements." From this we suppose it is to be interred that Mr. GRIFF and Mr. BAIRD, as well as Mr. HURER and Mr. BOLARD, have recently closed the order of Good Templars. By oined the order of Good Templars. H the way, the zeal which the organ of th Templars displays in gushing puffs of the two last-named gentlemen suggests the question whether they are as ardent advoquestion whether they are as arcent actions of standard statutes and prohibitory liquor laws as good standing in the temperance party to which they belong requires them to bet Are they in favor of closing the beer gardens on Sunday as a first step pre-liminary to the final abolition of every species of lignor-traffer.

when Senator Ravans went North, his tour was a perfect ovation. In Boston, the "Afthens of America," and the most aristocratic city on this coatment, he was made a social iton, and was introduceft to a crowed audience of the sile at Panenii. Hall by the most distinguished man of Messachusetts. But how did the Redeals of Kentucky treat him? They have "thrown down the gauntlet of equality," and, after all the hollow professions they have made, his visit afforded them as excellent opportunity to make some atonement for the nomination of so many old slave-traders and "patrollers" in the interior, while utterly excluding the most respectable and cultivated free-born colored men of Louisville, even from the empty honor of figuring as Radical candidates. Did they show him any respect as the pride and glory of his race, and the representative of its highest cultivation and character? When he returned to his old home, the scene of his humble career as a preacher of the Gospel, did they invite him to their houses, or show themselves in public with him, or segure him a decent lecture hall, or attend his lecture? Truth compels us to say that not even the approaching election could ishnee them to show the slightest courtesy to this United States Senator, this foremost man of his race, this peer of Wirson and Susann, who holds a higher position in the Radical party than any white Radical in Kentucky. Talk about race prejudice! They turned a cold shoulder to him, avoided him as if he had the small pox, sent him to speak to a few poor black men in a crazy, out-of-the-way church, and then ed him as if he had the small pox, sent him to speak to a few poor black men in a crazy, out-of-the-way church, and then sought to cover their shameless desertion by publishing a false story that Democrats had treated him with indigatity and put him off the care! Call you this backing your friends? The humble negro who arrays himself against the political prejudices of the entire white population of Kentucky merely to give some political importance to a few speculators in Federal appointments, can judge from this demonstration how long he must wait for his reward. The negroes who are quartered in the Radical camp who are quartered in the Radical cam will find out some day that it is time to To fold up their tenta like the Araba, And silently stem away.

Since my arrival at home, a friend has handed me your journal of the 16th insumt, containing the card of Col. Chenoweck, in which he seems to feel argrissed at my omitting to publish parts of his letter to me indicated by the saterists.

I desire to say, having learned from the Hon. J. G. Carliale that Col. Chenoweth had stated in his presence that side. Stevemen had, on a certain occasion, admitted that he knew of the rumor of Senator McCreery having recommended Burbridge before the Senatorial contest, I addressed a note to Col. Chenoweth saking him. to give the same statement to me, with his permission to use it and being given, I thought the remainder of his lotter irrelevant to my question, and as it would have prolonged my communication several paraprapshe, I omitted it.

Col. Chenoweth is wrong in his conclusion that I introduced his lotter "the refute Gov. Stevenson's desial that he had used the rumor before the Senatorial election," it was simply to prave by Mr. Stevenson's own admission that he knew of the rumor before the Senatorial election, which be, that it was need by him or his friends, although not within the knewledge of Col. Chenoweth or Mr. Carlisie.

I do not think, either, that my communication conveys the impression that Colonal C. "had changed from the ardent supporter of Governor Stevenson to his accuser"—certainly nosuch impression was intended to be made by me. My first thought was to publish his letter cutre, and I am jad now that he has published it himself, as I would have no hocorred conclusion dans now or would at himself, as I would have no hocorred conclusion dans now or would at himself and now that he has published it himself, as I would have no hocorred conclusion dans now or would at himself, as I would have no hocorred conclusion d

Your reporter concerning the resolutions passed in the conference of rabbia, at Clereland, naisundarstood in various points which i beg you to correct.

In the first place, they are not Dr. Lillentheirs work any more than any other gentlements of that conference. It was understood that such sentiments should be expressed; so Wiss told Lillenthait or write out a copy of resolutions, and to propose them, which was done. Being referred to a committee, they not in a spirit, on which all agreed. It is certainly unfair to ascrube the merits of a body to one gentleman.

In the second place, the text of the resolutions, published yesterday, is considerably changed in phraseology from the official copy. Some of them are multisted, almost to the detriment of the ideas to be conveyed.

In this third place, the Doctor before the mannes is an ingention are made the Doctor before their names. I for my part always sign myself.
